

An introduction to the statistical mechanics approach to Artificial Intelligence

Pierluigi Contucci (Univesrità di Bologna)

The course provides a very basic introduction to the statistical mechanics approach to machine learning problems. In particular we cover Boltzmann machines, their relation to the associative memory Hopfield model and the Perceptron, which constitutes the first example of a classifier.